

far as Tenerife and refused to go further. The supercargo urged him to follow instructions, at which the captain said that he feared his vessel would be seized. The supercargo said to him: "Don't you think the German Government can pay for your ship?"

Mr. Wood concluded his address as follows:

"Any one overt act proven is enough to convict these defendants. It is not necessary to show that these men signed any agreement. It is not necessary to show that any agreement was made. If we show what they did by their own acts, it is enough to convict them."

DEFENSE ADMITS MOST OF GOVERNMENT'S CONTENTION.

"We will admit," declared Mr. Rand, "that all, or nearly all Mr. Wood has said, is true. The Hamburg-American Steamship Company is organized under the laws of Germany, and has its headquarters in Germany. On Aug. 1, 1914, Mr. Buens received orders from the German government to charter boats and supply them with provisions and have them proceed to sea and await possible arrivals of German ships of war. Mr. Buens complied with the instructions. We admit that he chartered a number of steamships, and loaded and provisioned them at various ports of the United States and sent them to sea from Newport News, Philadelphia, New Orleans and Pensacola."

The attorney then read the names of twelve vessels which had been so chartered and sent to sea. He said that it was not necessary to call one witness.

R. D. Wrigley, a ship broker, the Government's first witness, said he had chartered the steamers Herwind and Lorenzo to the Hamburg-American Line through J. H. Gans, a ship broker, since dead. Mr. Buens, he said, signed the charter party, the charter price being $12,500 a month for the Herwind and $15,500 a month for the Lorenzo.

"We admit all this," Mr. Rand interrupted. "Why take up the Court's time?"

Mr. Wrigley continued, saying that the ships were bonded for $1,112,500. In spite of Mr. Rand's objections, the bond was produced and put into evidence.

The full jury in the trial of Buens and his conspirators of the Hamburg-American Line was selected this morning. They are as follows, according to rotation:

GEORGE W. PALMER, No. 124 Alexander Avenue, Bronx.

EUGENE P. KEANE, New Rochelle.

GEORGE M. ALLISON, No. 540 West One Hundred and Forty-fourth Street.

JOHN W. BURKE, No. 256 St. Ann's Avenue.

JOHN J. MORRIS, No. 263 West Twenty-fifth Street.

JOHN L. PEACE, No. 148 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street.

EDGAR LANE, No. 104 West One Hundred and Third Street.

RICHARD MOYLAN, No. 416 West Forty-seventh Street.

JOHN J. HOLLYWOOD, No. 332 Seneca Avenue.

THEODORE C. WOOD, No. 323 West One Hundred and Thirty-ninth Street.

EDWARD H. SCOTT, No. 353 West One Hundred and Seventeenth Street.

JAMES E. TAYLOR, No. 538 West One Hundred and Fifty-ninth Street.

A SPOONFUL OF SALTS RELIEVES ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat, which clogs kidneys, says noted authority.

If back hurts or Bladder bothers, stop all meat for a while.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sore of paralysis and logginess. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's uric waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizziness, spots, stomach sour, tongue coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to cleanse and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

WILLIAMS TO FACE CHARGES FOR 95C. GAS IN BROOKLYN

Committee Will Base Its Complaint on Kings County Lighting Rate.

CONCERN MADE MONEY.

Has $600,000 Surplus in Spite of High Price It Paid Standard for Oil

Facts on which to base charges against Public Service Commissioner G. V. S. Williams, demanding of the Governor his removal, were developed by the Thompson Legislative Committee today in connection with the Kings County Lighting Company.

Williams rendered a decision last week in a long pending rate case, allowing this company to continue charging 95 cents per thousand cubic feet for gas in South Brooklyn, while all other city rates are 86 cents.

Williams was placed on the witness stand and cross-examined by Counsel Lewis, for the committee, on the methods and tabulations by which he arrived at the decision. His own report, used as a text, was dissected paragraph by paragraph. Out of lengthy and oftentimes technical testimony there emerged some interesting facts concerning the Kings County company and its finances.

It pays the Standard Oil Company a higher price for oil used in the manufacture of gas than any other gas company in New York.

It has $2,000,000 dividend paying capital stock for which the stockholders never paid in a dollar of cash.

It has accumulated a surplus of more than $600,000 out of the rates charged consumers.

It has a contract with the city made in the old political days of Brooklyn whereby it receives $1.75 per thousand cubic feet for gas used in street lighting whereas the city pays other companies only 75 cents.

"Notwithstanding all this," queried Counsel Lewis summing up the examination, "it was your deliberate judgment as expressed in your opinion that the rate for the next twelve months should be 95 cents per thousand cubic feet?"

"I wouldn't say notwithstanding," stammered Williams in vague reply. "I took that into consideration as regards the going value but not anything of that sort in the value of this plant."

"But you reached the conclusion that 95 cents was a proper and just rate?"

"I reached just the conclusion that I expressed in my opinion based upon the facts that were discussed there," answered Williams, floundering desperately.

"That is all," said Lewis, and the case against this Commissioner was closed. The charges against him will be presented after Chairman McCall's fate has been passed upon by the Governor.

Contracts of various gas companies for oil were produced with the commissioner was called to the stand, showing that the Kings County Lighting Company was paying higher prices for oil than any of the others.

Tabulations showed that the Kings County company contracted with the Standard Oil Company in 1914 for oil at 4.75 cents per gallon while contracts of other companies made at about the same time in 1914 were as follows:

Consolidated Gas Company, 3.055 cents; Brooklyn Union, 3.045 cents; Brooklyn Borough Gas Company, 3.25 cents; New York and Richmond Gas Company, 3.25 cents; Queens Borough Gas Company, 4 cents.

"Was your allowance of a 95-cent rate for gas to the Kings County Company based on the higher cost of its oil?" the Commissioner was asked. "Yes," replied Williams, "that was the large element. I submitted the question of oil prices to counsel of the commission and to Commissioner Hayward, and it is my understanding that the oil contract was legitimate."

Commissioner Hayward, however, testified at a previous hearing that he regarded the oil contract as a frame-up.

Attempts of the committee to follow the trail of a suspected "yellow dog" fund in connection with interborough contracts for third-trading the elevated roads were again blocked today by a decision of Judge Pierce of the Massachusetts courts in Boston. The committee had sought to compel Charles E. Cutting, executor of the estate of the late Gardiner M. Lane of Boston, to produce certain papers supposed to have been left by Mr. Lane, telling of what happened in the Interborough Board of Directors, of which he was a member, when the Stevens is per cent profit contract was under consideration.

Mr. Lane had made earnest protest against the proposed contract, and when outvoted, had resigned. The papers received information that he kept a diary of what happened in the Interborough Board of Directors, of which he was a member, when the Stevens is per cent profit contract was under consideration. The Boston court held that a legislative committee of New York State had no authority that could be recognized in Massachusetts.

AUSTRIANS BREAK ITALIAN LINE AND ARE DRIVEN BACK

Rome Reports Fighting Along Tyrol-Trentino Front of the Fiercest Character.

HURRICANES OF FIRE.

Prisoners Taken and Quantities of Artillery Fall Into the Hands of the Invaders.

ROME, Nov. 22. (via Paris, Nov. 23).—The following official statement was issued today at the headquarters of the Italian General Staff: "The artillery on both sides has been active at different points along the Tyrol-Trentino and Carnia fronts. The enemy's artillery tried its usual destructive action on the township of Desoleto in the Comelico Valley. This attempt was beaten down and silenced by our fire."

"On the Isarco front the struggle continued yesterday with increasing intensity on the boundary formed by the lower heights of Pevma, Ostavia and Hill which faced toward Gorizia between Podgora and Sabotino. The enemy made a determined counter-offensive, with the object of recapturing lost positions. His counter-attacks were preceded and accompanied by a hurricane of fire from numerous batteries, but the most violent was on the heights northwest of Ostavia."

"Several times the enemy broke our line and penetrated positions conquered by us, but always was thrown back after a desperate melee. Our brave troops, especially those of the Fourth Division, did not yield an inch of their positions, which were covered with blood, and several times they hurled themselves upon the enemy with the bayonet, inflicting heavy losses and taking eighty-nine prisoners. Several of them were officers."

"On the Carso Plateau our troops, after repulsing four counter attacks during the night, resumed the offensive everywhere at dawn. Fresh progress was made between the summits of Monte San Michele, Tuxarda San Martino we took by assault a strong trench on the position called 'The Lone Tree.' We took 202 prisoners, four of whom were officers, one field gun, two machine guns, one trench mortar, arms and munitions."

NELLIE HAD MASTER LOCKED UP, THEN WON RELEASE FROM JUDGE

Bull Terrier Was Burns's Good Angel After His Hilarious Whirl.

Nellie is something more than a sleek, white bull terrier; she's a good angel, and when William Burns walked out of Yorkville Police Court this morning, with the dog leaping up beside him to catch at his hand, it was to her faithfulness that he owed his liberty. And just as Burns was turning away after his discharge, Magistrate Barlow said to him: "Just remember one thing, Burns, that dog is a far better friend to you than whiskey."

Burns, who is an ironworker living at No. 313 West Thirty-seventh Street, went out with Nellie last night to visit the resorts and the cronies of his neighborhood. What happened in these hours was of course Burns's business, but it was Nellie's also, because she was on a leash and had been following her master about all the evening.

But time came when Nellie decided to take matters into her own hands. How she did it became known to the police of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station when the desk Lieutenant heard a scratching at the door.

When the door was opened there stood Nellie with Burns on the leash, and she led him into the room with a wary look about her. The Lieutenant put Burns and Nellie into a cell for the night and then had both taken to court this morning.

No sooner was Burns's case called than Nellie went to the bar with her master, and as he stood there awaiting whatever the law had to say to him, the bull terrier put her forepaw upon the table in front of Magistrate Barlow's bench and gave one sharp bark. Burns tried to keep her quiet, but she barked once or twice more and then Policeman Solomon told the Magistrate the story of Burns's appearance at the station house in charge of his dog.

Magistrate Barlow accepted the bark as a plea for clemency and yielded.

Daughter of Princeton's Head Who Weds College Professor

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 23.—The marriage of Elizabeth Grier Hibben, daughter of John Grier Hibben, President of Princeton University, to Prof. Robert Maxwell Seaton of the Classics Department took place this afternoon in Marquand Chapel. The Rev. Francis Lindley Patton performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Ralph R. Pomeroy of the First Episcopal Church of Princeton. Miss Barbara Armour of Princeton was maid of honor, and Miss Seaton, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The Misses Esther and Marian Cleveland, daughters of Grover Cleveland, were bridesmaids.

BRITAIN DECLARES GRECIAN PORTS ARE NOT BLOCKADED

No Ships Are Being Seized or Held Up, Says the Foreign Office.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The Foreign Office states no Greek ships are being seized or held up in the ports of the United Kingdom and that no blockade of Greek ports has been instituted or is in force.

No amplification of the Foreign Office statement is obtainable in official quarters. The universal deduction is that the Greek Government has satisfied the British demands, submitted by Earl Kitchener, Secretary for War, who was in Athens last week. It is assumed Greece has furnished guarantees of the safety of the Anglo-French expeditionary force.

SALONICA, Greece (via Paris), Nov. 23.—The resignation of Premier Skoufoudis of Greece, according to reports in circulation here, is expected momentarily, on account of difficulties between Greece and Great Britain.

tain of the heights dominating the western extremity of the Velez-Pirlep line.

The Serb counter-attack which forced the Bulgars back to the northward followed the desperate Serbian rally in defense of Monastir. The Serbs followed their advantage with furious impetuosity, driving the invaders before them for more than 20 miles.

The restored line places the Serb right wing in touch with the French before Velez and clears a 30 to 40-mile wide strip of southern Serbia of the enemy.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Ten thousand Bulgars have been killed and wounded in fighting for Monastir. The Bulgar forces attacked the town Saturday, Salonica advisers say. It was learned today for the first time that the assault was repulsed. Repeated earlier reports were to the effect that the town had fallen.

The Serbs, driven southward from Habuna Pass and Priep, rallied before Monastir and fought desperately. The struggle was at close quarters. The Serbs were outnumbered, but their reckless courage turned the tide of battle in their favor.

GERMAN WARSHIP SUNK IN BALTIC, LONDON REPORTS

Thirty-three Said to Be Lost on Dreadnought Which Hit a Mine.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Following the announcement from Copenhagen that from ten to twenty-five new British submarines have passed into the Baltic Sea, by way of the Cattegat, within the past week, the following despatch to the Daily Mail has been received from Rotterdam:

"One of Germany's newest dreadnoughts struck a mine Friday in the Baltic Sea and went to the bottom. All the members of the crew were saved except thirty-three, who were drowned."

In some circles in London it is believed it was one of the new E-boats and not a mine, which sent the dreadnought to the bottom.

(Six German dreadnoughts have been completed since the war opened: The Grosser Kurfurst, Konig, Markgraf, Kronprinz, Erzatzk and the "T," for which no official name has been given. The first four have a main battery of ten 12-inch guns and the latter eight 15-inch rifles. Germany is reported to have lost the following capital ships: Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, the Pommern and the Moltke, though only the loss of the Moltke has been admitted.)

PETROGRAD, Nov. 23.—"On the Baltic Sea, Nov. 20, after a short fight, our torpedo boats near Windau sank a German patrol steamer," says the latest official Russian report. "One officer and nineteen men were taken prisoner. We suffered no losses."

French and Bulgarians in the gorge of the Rajec River, a tributary of the Cerna, Southeastern Serbia, had resulted on Sunday in the retirement of the French from a point north of Drenova to the right bank of the Cerna. The French were still holding the Rajec Gorge and the important bridgehead at Bofharst, controlling the heights opposite Gradisce.

DEFEAT OF MAIN ARMY OF THE SERBIANS IS REPORTED IN BERLIN.

BERLIN, Nov. 23 (by Wireless to Sayville).—Notable progress for the Bulgarians in the region southeast of Pristina in Serbia, against the main Serb army, with the capture of 8,000 Serbians, 44 cannon and 22 machine guns, was announced by German Army Headquarters today. The Teutonic troops have taken 1,500 additional Serbian prisoners and captured six cannon.

Northeast of Pristina and north of Mitrovica the Austro-German forces are advancing, throwing back the Serbians, who are resisting in rear guard actions.

GAS VALUES FIXED TO LEAVE NOTHING FOR THE FRANCHISE

Former City Officer Tells of Figuring for the Brooklyn Union Company.

AGENT "SAW PEOPLE."

This Was the Work of Ex-Senator Gallagher, Who Helped Cut Assessment.

Curtis Peters, formerly an Assistant Corporation Counsel, in which position he served as an expert on taxes, but now one of the special counsel for the New Amsterdam Gas Company, had an unpleasant time of it on the witness stand today at the hearing before Justice Newburger of the $90,000 suit for legal fees, brought against the Brooklyn Union Gas Company by Henry W. Bridges.

Mr. Peters, who once was hired by the City of New York to help prevent corporations from dodging taxes and now attends to franchise matters for the New Amsterdam Company, which is a subsidiary of the Consolidated Gas Company, was compelled to tell how the Brooklyn Union Company juggled valuations in its efforts to escape the Franchise Tax Law and at the same time put up an argument against 80-cent gas.

His testimony tended to bear out the contention of "The Evening World's" tax articles, which is that the gas, electric light, power and street railway companies are evading the payment of taxes by juggling valuations.

When Mr. Peters went on the stand he said that in 1910-11 and 12 he was an Assistant Corporation Counsel in charge of taxes. In 1910 and 1911 Mr. Bridges called on him at various times and held conferences. Once in a while the lawyer brooked Vice-President Carter of the Consolidated Gas Company along with him.

"The arguments and talking there were always done by Mr. Carter," said the witness.

"When Mr. Bridges went alone to the Corporation Counsel's office how long would his conference last?" asked Attorney Herbert C. Smyth, representing the Brooklyn Union Gas Company.

BRIDGES WOULD "PUSH MATTERS ALONG."

"Usually quite brief," he replied. "Mr. Bridges would pursue matters of law. His first call would be to dispense with an examination of the books of the Brooklyn Union Gas Company. He wanted to 'push matters along.'"

"What do you mean by 'he wanted to push matters along'?"

"Why, he complained of the length of time an expert was taking and wanted to know if I would not expedite the work."

The witness said that at a tax assessment conference Mr. Carter "did the proposing." He denied having said the report of W. A. Baer, a gas expert from Chicago who was making an appraisal of the Brooklyn Union Gas plant, was "crooked."

The situation when, early in 1913, Bridges entered into the case in behalf of the Brooklyn Union Gas Company, was that he had effected settlements for the Consolidated Company and was trying, along with John W. Sterling and R. A. Carter of the Consolidated Company, William N. Dykman for the Brooklyn Union Company, and former Senator Frank Gallagher, to "bury things along" for the latter corporations.

Two gas experts had been tried out in making appraisals of the Brooklyn Union holdings and their reports rejected. Then along came W. A. Baer. REPORT LEFT NOTHING FOR THE FRANCHISE.

"Baer made a report," said Mr. Peters, "in which the value placed on tangible property was so high as to leave nothing for the franchise." The witness then explained, in reply to questions by Judge Cohen, how a public utility corporation is taxed.

The lawyer for Bridges then brought out that Expert Baer threw most of the Brooklyn Union valuetions into tangible property. This left practically nothing for the franchise valuation and lawyers for the Brooklyn Union Company were at that time claiming that the franchise actually was valueless. At the same time another purpose was served by Expert Baer's report, in that, most of the valuations being on tangible property, the earnings—as shown on paper—were decreased, and thus an argument against 80-cent gas was put up.

"The valuation put by Mr. Baer on the tangible property was so high as to leave nothing for the franchise," said Mr. Peters.

"Did you not say to Mr. Bridges," asked former Judge Cohen, "that the Gas Company would rather go to trial and use Baer's report than to settle this case, for the reason that they would have an eternal block against a reduction in the price of gas?"

"No," was the reply, "I said the company would rather settle the case than fight it and take a chance on a rate reduction." Mr. Peters continued to deny flatly having made statements attributed to him by Mr. Bridges during conferences between them. He insisted that his statements had been exactly contrary to what the lawyer asserted.

George B. Corvay, President of the Consolidated Gas Company, was called this afternoon as a witness for the defense. He told of conferences in the Mayor's office over the Brooklyn Union Gas Company's assessments in which he participated. Bridges, he said, took a leading part in these conferences.

Frank Gallagher, former State Senator, lobbyist and lawyer, was another witness today.

Gallagher had a great deal to do with the settlement for a little more than half a million dollars of the claims against the Brooklyn Union Company for franchise taxes during the years 1906, '07, '08 and '09.

Ex-Senator Gallagher told a story of the settlement which tended to show that Bridges had not taken an active part in "adjusting" the situation. The former Senator's testimony indicated that he had been the real worker in "seeing people."

"When I was conferring with Mr. Bridges I was conferring with the Corporation Counsel's office, too," he said. "In other words, I considered this matter my special work."

"About this time Senator Elsborg was acting as a special Deputy Attorney General in these cases. My idea was to supply data to him." The writs of certiorari asked for by counsel for the gas company were dismissed, said the witness, and afterward he "tried very hard" to effect a settlement of the cases, conferring with the Comptroller, Mr. Peters of the Corporation Counsel's office and Mr. McGuire of the Attorney General's office.
